Students must demonstrate that they have passed the appropriate exams before they will be approved for student teaching.

The Praxis II Content Knowledge test measures subject matter knowledge. It is not an exam about how to teach. It is an exam that assesses your knowledge about what you teach. Depending on your major/minor, you may need to take more than one test. Registration and directions are available in N/E 113. Students must first pass the PPST (Preprofessional Skills Test) and be admitted into the College of Education and Human Services before taking the Praxis II. For sample test questions and on-line registration go to the ETS website: www.ets.org/praxis.
