Biography

Tony Renning is a shareholder with Davis & Kuelthau, s.c. who concentrates his practice in labor and employment, school as well as municipal law litigation and counseling. Tony provides advice and counsel to employers about their rights and obligations under federal and state laws and regulations. He advises on all aspects of labor and employment compliance, including wage and hour, leaves of absence, discrimination, harassment, reductions in force, work force management, employment policies and handbooks as well as other employment-related matters.

Tony also has experience with labor negotiations, union certification and decertification campaigns, unfair labor practice litigation and contract administration, including grievance arbitrations. He regularly represents clients before the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, National Labor Relations Board, Wisconsin Department of Workforce Development and Wisconsin Employment Relations Commission. In addition, he conducts employment-related training for management.

Tony’s primary client base includes private and public employers of all sizes in various industries as well as counties, cities and school districts.

Tony lives in Oshkosh with his wife Lori and two children: Brogan (6) and Addison (4). Tony is an active member of the Oshkosh community.
