Type of Action Required

3 credits of anthropology 390, field Experience, will fulfill the methods requirement for the Anthropology major.

Justification of Proposed Change

Field experience is the sin qua non of anthropological research. Our new course, anthropology 390, Field Experience, focus on just that, experience in the field. This will be a variable topic, variable credit course which will allow students and faculty to go to various field sites in this country and abroad. This kind of experience will powerfully expose students to the rigors of living in unfamiliar contexts and conducting anthropological research.
