Type of Action Required

Reduce number of total credits within the Social Work major from 85 to 82.

Justification of Proposed Change

In March, 1999, the Department of Social Work submitted paperwork for “the deletion of 3-credit Social Work Elective to increase flexibility for students to select a minor in a related area or discipline.” Since this time, numerous curriculum modifications have had to be done to accept various courses to fulfill students graduation requirements with a BSW. In order to alleviate this problem, if the department were to reduce it’s number of credits from 85 to 82, this would minimize the number of curricular mods that would need to be processed.
