Almost 13,000 students are enrolled at UW Oshkosh for the 2008-2009 academic year. More than 50 percent of new freshmen are first-generation college students. They are pioneers embarking on educational journeys to change the profile of their families and their communities.

Upon graduation, they will join the more than 60,000 UW Oshkosh alumni, 32,000 of whom call Wisconsin's New North their home. These alumni already have made their mark on the world, resulting in big gains — thousands of children educated, businesses founded, illnesses healed and lives touched by knowledge and enlightenment.

The future of our state and our country is based on the generation of ideas, and UW Oshkosh provides the environment to begin the process. As Wisconsin's third-largest university, UW Oshkosh has won more Regents Teaching Excellence Awards — four individual faculty members and three departments — than any other UW institution.

The UW Oshkosh Fund is a University-wide annual source of support for scholarships and areas of greatest need, funded by unrestricted donations from alumni, parents and friends. By working together, the UW Oshkosh Fund will change lives and help shape the future of the University.

No gift is too small, and none matters more than yours.

UW Oshkosh's College of Business — the only nationally accredited business school in the region — is in the top 15 percent of all business schools in the nation, according to the Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business.

UW Oshkosh's College of Education and Human Services was the first in the state to meet the new NCATE 2000 national accreditation standards. Only four of the 32 teacher education institutions in the state have done so.

UW Oshkosh's College of Letters and Science is home to the most successful Model United Nations team in the nation, taking top delegation honors every year for the past two decades.

UW Oshkosh's College of Nursing — the second-largest nursing program in the state and the largest major on campus — is fully accredited into the next decade by the Commission on Collegiate Nursing Education at both the undergraduate and graduate levels.

Regardless of their degree or major, all UW Oshkosh graduates benefit from a well-rounded education. Upon graduation, they are ready to make decisions based upon critical and analytical thinking. They know the value of flexibility and adaptability and are skilled communicators. These tools afford them a high quality of life and future success. They will not only thrive, but also contribute to our rapidly changing and increasingly global society.

Your gift will make a difference.

More than 70 percent of UW Oshkosh students rely on financial assistance to pursue their education. Your gift will help make the University affordable and accessible and a better place to live, learn and grow. By giving back to the UW Oshkosh Fund, you can help us make a great university even better.

Make a gift to the UW Oshkosh Fund. Your gift will count for the 2008-2009 academic year. And it will count forever in the lives of the students who benefit from your generosity.
