

Date: Oct. 22, 2009

Oshkosh Northwestern

Multimedia Internship

The Oshkosh Northwestern is currently accepting applications for a part-time multimedia intern. The position will be for college credit.

In addition to shooting video this position also be working on creating dynamic photo galleries for our Web site and working with the Web editor on assigned Web duties.

The ideal candidate would have a basic working knowledge and experience in shooting and editing both stills and video, and working with programs such as Avid (or similar video editing software), Adobe Creative Suite, and Mogulus, among other programs.

The aim of the internship is to help broaden the skills needed for advancement in the media field post-graduation and to also give the applicant some real-life experiences covering breaking news, features and longer-term projects, among others, as the events and stories of the field dictate. Skills garnered and polished include video shooting and editing, still photography shooting, digital story development, editing for the Web and others.

Because the internship is for credit, documentation of internship acceptance from the university is required and under the supervision of the Assistant News Editor for Digital Media, the position will also complete any relevant coursework as dictated by the university.

Contact Managing editor Jim Fitzhenry at jfitzhen@thenorthwestern.com with a resume and a brief letter discussing your interest and qualifications.