Academic Event: Career Fair on the Fox

I went to the Career Fair on the Fox and I learned a ton from the event. I got some tips on how to brush up my resume' to make it stand out a little more, I got to speak with employers and learn different things they are looking for in an employee and I also learned that I need to always have a lot of copies of my resume' to hand out at any time.

Because I learned all of these awesome tips, I believe that it will make me a better candidate for positions not only on but off of campus that I am interested in. Because I am just a college student and just getting to know what the real world is like, these tips have boosted my confidence because I can be ahead of the game in my employment search and it will also teach me how to balance my job search with my student obligations while in college.

When I first got to the Career Fair on the Fox in Kolf Sports Center, I was a little scared because there were so many companies and employers there already looking for interviews to hire candidates. I did get more comfortable though after I got to my first table and got to speak to an employer from Oshkosh Corp. He had put my mind at ease and explained what they were looking for. I realized that it wasn't going to be as scary as I thought and moved on to other tables, gave my resume' to some employers and even got 2 interviews that same day. All and all, it was a very successful and busy day with a lot of new opportunities to look for and a lot of different people to network with.

Cultural Event: Black History Month Celebration- speakers from POW (People of Wisdom)

This was a really cool event to attend because there were people from campus as well as other speakers that came to talk about Black History month. I learned some cool dance moves as well as new poets and poetry that was read or interpreted by the students in POW.

As a college student I think it's a good idea to learn more about another ethnic group so you aren't narrow minded or you have the wrong impression about it. Because I went to this event, I believe that I am more open minded and can see and accept different ethnicities better than I have before.

The event was in Reeve and they had the participants on a stage in front of an audience which I thought was cool because I wasn't expecting it to be like that. POW first introduced some of its members and what it did on campus. Then the fun started. Members from POW and some volunteers got on stage and performed the first of a handful of dances. Then there were POW members who read some Black history poetry, sang some songs and then joined in on a dance. It was an exciting hour and a half!
